THE TWENTY-FIFTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME: Who Is the Greatest?

In this week's Gospel reading, Mark 9:30-37, we witness a pivotal moment in Jesus' ministry. He travels with His disciples, teaching them about His impending suffering and death. Yet, what follows reveals a deeper understanding of His mission and a challenge to our own notions of greatness and humility. The disciples, clearly not fully grasping Jesus' message, debate who among them is the greatest. Their focus on status and hierarchy indicates a common human tendency to seek validation through power and recognition. This is not unlike our own daily lives, where we often measure our worth by titles, achievements, or comparisons with others.

There's a story about a man whose great ambition was to become a general in the army. He imagined all the attention he would get, everybody saluting him, somebody to drive him around, all the perquisites of that high rank. One day he reached his goal and was promoted to Brigadier General. The next day, he moved into his new office, and sat behind his big, new desk. He could just feel the power emanating from that office. His aide walked in and said, "There's a man here to see you." The general said, "Send him right in." He thought, "I'm going to impress this man with how important I am, how much power I have." He turned around, picked up the phone, and pretended that he was talking to the President of the United States. He said, "Mr. President, I understand what you are saying. I think your idea is a good one, and I can tell you that I will share it with the Secretary of Defense when I see him tomorrow. Thank you for calling. Goodbye, sir." He hung up the phone, turned around, and saw an ordinary soldier standing there. The general barked at him, "What can I do for you young man?" The soldier said, "Nothing, sir. I'm just here to hook up your phone."

I love that story. We like to see people's pretenses punctured like that. Jesus tells us, "Whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be exalted." There are always a lot of phone calls made from the White House. Some phone calls are coming in, but I guess most of them are going out. They all have to do with power, privilege, and prestige. The White House is a magnet for ambition. I suppose it has always been that way because the White House is the symbol of power in our society. After the Watergate crisis, one of several aides in the Nixon administration had a conversion of sorts and then wrote a book about the experience. His name was John Dean and the book was entitled Blind Ambition. And that is what our text for this weekend is about.

Jesus is on His way with His disciples to Jerusalem. Walking along the road He is talking about what lies ahead, what they can expect when they get there. He says, "The Son of Man will be delivered into the hands of men, and be killed, and will rise again." When Jesus hears the disciples' argument about who will be greatest among them, He responds with a striking lesson in humility. He takes a child, places him among them, and says that to welcome a child is to welcome Him, and ultimately, the One who sent Him. In the culture of the time, children were seen as the least powerful and the most vulnerable. By elevating their status, Jesus redefines greatness—not in terms of power or influence, but through service and love.

This teaching challenges us to reflect on our values and the ways we seek to establish our own worth. True greatness, according to Jesus, is found not in being served, but in serving others, especially the least among us. It invites us to cultivate a heart of compassion, to embrace humility, and to recognize the inherent dignity in every person.

As we navigate our lives, let us remember this message. In a world that often celebrates the loudest voices and the most powerful figures, may we strive to be servants to one another. Let us foster a community where love, humility, and service are our guiding principles. As we follow Christ, may we be inspired to welcome the "little ones"—the marginalized, the forgotten, those in need—and to see in them the face of Jesus. In doing so, we not only embrace His teachings but also experience the richness of His love and the transformative power of grace. Amen.

Fr. Mark Kalema, Pastor

Today's Readings

First Reading: Let us condemn him to a shameful death; for according to his own words, God will take care of him. (Wis 2:20)

Psalm: The Lord upholds my life. (Ps 54)

Second Reading: And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace for those who cultivate peace. (Jas 3:18)

Gospel: "If anyone wishes to be first, he shall be the last of all and the servant of all." (Mk 9:35)

Reflect & Respond to Scripture

First Reading: The Jewish wisdom writer teaches us that wicked people revile and test those who are just and upright. What might be an effective way to win over a wicked person?

Second Reading: James encourages us to be sincere and consistent in cultivating peace. Can you think of a situation this week at home or at work where you could seek peace?

Gospel: We hear today that the disciples did not always understand Jesus and were afraid sometimes to ask him questions. How would you suggest dealing with tensions that arise in close relationships? ©LPi

GOSPEL

Even though they were friends, sometimes the disciples fought with each other. In today's Gospel reading, they were fighting over who was the most important. All twelve of them wanted to be number one—the best disciple. Then Jesus told them a secret. The best disciple is the one who helps other people.

PRAYER

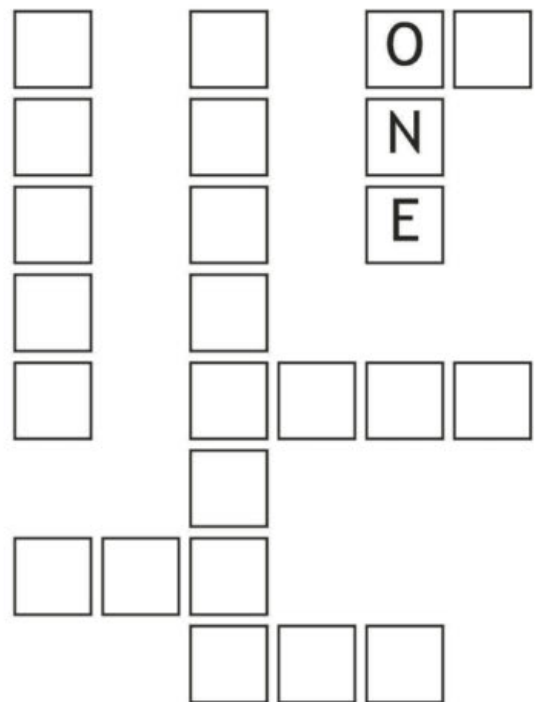

Dear God, when I am tempted to fight with my friends, show me ways to help them instead.

September 22, 2024

Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ,

All of us have benefited in so many ways from the ministry of priests who have served us in the Archdiocese of Chicago. Before their ordination, these priests prepared over a course of years to serve us. Today, seminarians, when ordained, will be serving your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. Some are in the pre-seminary spiritual year at Bishop Quarter House in the city. Others are completing their college studies at the University of St. Thomas in Saint Paul, Minnesota. Finally, those in the last four-year phase of preparation, are being formed at Mundelein Seminary.

Supporting vocations to the priesthood is a task that belongs to all of us in the Church. I want to invite you to express that support in four ways: pray for vocations and our seminarians in preparation, encourage those seminarians serving in your parish, urge young men to give their lives in service as priests, and make a financial contribution to support our programs of priestly formation. Prayer, encouragement, recruiting and financial support—all these actions express our gratitude to God for the gift of priestly ministry. These actions also build for the future of our Church and for our children and grandchildren. I would note that given that our seminarians need to invest themselves totally in formation, they are not able to work. Thus, we need to cover the costs not only for their education but other expenses such as health insurance and other personal support.

An offering envelope is in your pew or at the back of the church for your financial gift. You may also send your donation directly to your parish, noting that it is for "Seminar Education," or you may make a gift online at archchicago.org/seminarianfund. If you wish to send a permanent burse to support seminary education in memory of a family member, as others have done, do not hesitate to contact Kirsten Trybula at ktrybula@archchicago.org or at 847.899.0010.

Thank you for your generous response.

Sincerely yours in Christ,
